Lessons for the Social Studies Classroom

The idea for this book came while I was observing a student teacher and a master teacher. I realized that most student teachers while in training do not have the opportunity to think creatively about their lessons. I also noticed that teachers new to the field of teaching suffer the same fate; they are too busy trying to survive the day and are not sure how to plan and organize their teaching. Lesson plans are one of the most important tools for a teacher and more important for the novice teacher. I believe that during student teaching or during their undergraduate years, if students were equipped with this book their first year teaching will not look so first year. Imagine an undergraduate class filled with soon to be Social Studies teachers discussing these selected lesson plans, improving upon them and making them their own. Most first year teachers over teach or under teach and both types still miss the marks on the standardized test. These lesson plans will give the new teacher a place to begin.

Teaching World History in the Twenty-first Century

This practical handbook is designed to help anyone who is preparing to teach a world history course--or wants to teach it better. It opens with Peter Stearns's essay "Where Did World History Come From?" and closes with Jerry Bentley's annotated bibliographic guide to the essential content knowledge for teaching world history. In between, contributors offer conceptual approaches to the subject and practical steps to design a successful course. These core chapters are written by experienced teachers who have shaped the world history courses currently taught in secondary schools and colleges across the country. They feature new approaches to the subject as well as classroom-tested practices that have markedly improved world history teaching. The book was assembled and edited by Heidi Roupp, a founding member of the World History Association, who pioneered institutes for professors and teachers developing world history courses, and compiled a similar collection for teachers in the mid-1990s. This book contains seven parts. Part I, World History Teaching, contains: (1) Where Did World History Come From? The Origins of a Vital Subdiscipline (Peter N. Stearns); (2) What Sixth Graders Can Teach You About World History (William Everdall); (3) Why I Teach World History (David Dorman); and (4) a Low-Tech Approach to Teaching World History (Or, Real Learning on the Cheap) (Suzanne Litrel). Part ii, Conceptualizing the Course, contains: (5) The Human Web (William McNeill); (6) Conversations Between Past and Present: Thoughts on Teaching Current Events in a World History Classroom (Tom Laichas); (7) The Twenty-first Century Classroom: Using Online Course Management Systems to Help Students Make the World's History Their Own (Michael S. Brown); (8) Understanding World History: Some Frequently Asked Questions (Thomas Mounkhal); (9) Integrating World History Themes (Morgan Falkner); and (10) Teaching the Long Nineteenth Century (1750-1914) in World History: a Document-Based Lesson and Approach (Christopher Ferraro). Part iii, Teaching Basics, contains: (11) "I Can't Read This!" Critical Thinking Strategies for Teaching Analytical Comparative Essays (Davina Baird); (12) History or Hysteria: Teaching and Evaluating Discussion (Jack Betterly); (13) Discovering Global Patterns: How Student-Centered Internet Research Can Build a Genuine World History Perspective (Ryba L. Epstein); (14) Stimulating Through Simulating: Thinking Historically in the Classroom (Dave Clarke); and (15) Improving Student Writing With Annotated Rubrics (Bill Strickland). Part iv, Planning, contains: (16) The First-Year World History Teacher's Survive-and-Thrive Guide (Mike Burns); (17) Time Management and Student Ownership: How to Get Through Your Curriculum in the Time Allotted (Chris Peek and Angela Wainright); (18) Nuts and Bolts (Monty Armstrong); (19) Common Pitfalls in Teaching ap World History and How to Avoid Them (Steve Corso); and (20) Year Two: Moving from Survival to Fun (Sigrid Reynolds). Part v, Teaching Skills, contains: (21) What Should Happen on the First Day in a World History Class? What Do You Want to Do and How Do You Want to Accomplish It? (Helen Grady); (22) Bell Ringers (Janet Martin); (23) Get 'Em Up! Kinesthetic Learning for World History on Block Schedules (Beth Williams); (24) Using Your Community in Your World History Course (Nancy Jorczak); (25) The Importance of Teaching About Religion in the Classroom (Barbara Brun-Ozuna); (26) Leaders' Forum: Learning About Leadership in World History (Steven L. Buening); and (27) The Procession Portrayed: Using Art History in the Global Curriculum (Mary Rossabi). Part vi, Learning and Understanding, contains: (28) Fishbones and Forests: Teaching About Argumentation Using a Graphic Organizer (Maryann Brown and Marita Nicholas); (29) Listening to Students Talk About Gender in the World History Classroom (Sharon Cohen); and (30) a Week's Worth of World History Skills: a Reflection (Dale Griepenstroh). Part vii, Historiography, contains: (31) Why Historiography Belongs in the Classroom (Cristobal T. Saldana); and (32) a Basic, Briefly Annotated Bibliography for Teachers of World History (Jerry H. Bentley). An introduction by Heidi Roupp, a bibliography and an index are included.

Teaching History

Written by teachers, for teachers, this guide offers instructional resources for all the AP World History exam components, including: stimulus-based multiple-choice questions, short-answer questions, document analysis, document-based essay questions, and long essay questions. Teacher introductions to each section include pacing suggestions, and tried and true teaching tips. Student learning guides introduce the skill to the student step-by-step, providing ample opportunity for guided practice. Additional assessments are also included to allow for further practice and mastery. Building off the success of the first edition, this second edition is updated to reflect the latest changes to the exam, specifically the more open-ended essay prompts and the "complexity" component. This guide is an invaluable resource for experienced and new teachers alike.

Mastering AP World History

Data. Does the word make you cringe? Does it evoke feelings of guilt? Are you unsure how to distill it and use it effectively? Grab this book and learn how to empower yourself and your school community with information gleaned from your school's data. Experienced educators and authors offer simple instructions that can help focus school improvement efforts and result in increasing teacher expertise--a factor that positively affects the quality of life for students long after they have left the classroom. Accepting responsibility for such far-reaching influence requires educators to adopt instructional improvement as a standard by which a school needs to operate and as a means to collaborate and interact with one another. More than that, though, instructional improvement is an important component of successful schools. Learn how to improve instruction by * Collecting the right data--the right way. * Incorporating relevant data into everyone's daily life. * Resisting the impulse to set brand-new goals every year. * Never settling for "good enough." * Anticipating changes--big and small, local and federal. * Collaborating and avoiding privatized practice. * Involving all stakeholders in identifying problems, setting goals, and analyzing data. * Agreeing on what constitutes high-quality instruction and feedback. The challenge is to understand that data--not intuition or anecdotal reports--are tools to be used in getting better at teaching students. And teaching students effectively is what schools are all about. Following the guidance in this book, overcome uncertainty and concerns about data as you learn to collect and analyze both soft and hard data and use their secrets for instructional improvement in your school.

Using Data to Focus Instructional Improvement

A Primer for Teaching World History is a guide for college and high school teachers who are designing an introductory-level world history syllabus for the first time, for those who already teach world history and are seeking new ideas or approaches, and for those who train future teachers to prepare any history course with a global or transnational focus. Drawing on her own classroom practices, as well as her career as a historian, Antoinette Burton offers a set of principles to help instructors think about how to design their courses with specific goals in mind, whatever those may be. She encourages teachers to envision the world history syllabus as having an architecture: a fundamental, underlying structure or interpretive focus that runs throughout the course, shaping students' experiences, offering pathways in and out of "the global," and reflecting the teacher's convictions about the world and the work of history.

A Primer for Teaching World History

This volume reviews the background of mandated teacher performance assessment with an emphasis on policy, privatization, and professionalization. The authors discuss the potential impact of mandated teacher performance assessments on teacher education in the content areas of mathematics, English, and social studies. The perspectives and empirical research examined in this conceptual analysis illustrate the various ways in which the Stanford Center for Assessment, Learning, and Equity (SCALE) Teacher Performance Assessment (edTPA) promises to restructure teacher education in the United States. The authors consider both the affordances and the constraints that teacher performance assessments offer for teacher preparation programs, and conclude by discussing the implications of the intersections among policy, privatization, professionalization, and performance assessments of teachers, as well as the relationship between performance assessments and teacher education. The impact of the edTPA on the development of signature pedagogies in teacher education is also discussed.

5 Steps to a 5: AP World History: Modern 2023

Teaching for Historical Literacy combines the elements of historical literacy into a coherent instructional framework for teachers. It identifies the role of historical literacy, analyzes its importance in the evolving educational landscape, and details the action steps necessary for teachers to implement its principles throughout a unit. These steps are drawn from the reflections of real teachers, grounded in educational research, and consistent with the Common Core State Standards. The instructional arc formed by authors Matthew T. Downey and Kelly A. Long takes teachers from start to finish, from managing the prior learning of students to developing their metacognition and creating synthesis at the end of a unit of study. It includes introducing topics by creating a conceptual overview, helping students collect and analyze evidence, and engaging students in multiple kinds of learning, including factual, procedural, conceptual, and metacognitive. This book is a must-have resource for teachers and students of teaching interested in improving their instructional skills, building historical literacy, and being at the forefront of the evolving field of history education.

Creating Literacy-rich Schools for Adolescents

This book effectively translates author John Green's YouTube video sensation of World History II Crash Courses into guided question worksheets. Students follow along with John Green's online Crash Courses and reflect upon events inside of world history using this interactive guiding question workbook. Common Core World History standards are followed in all questions asked helping students tap into level 3 and 4 DOK (Depth of Knowledge) thinking skills surrounding events that have occurred throughout world history. Any student of world history wishing to pass both a high school AP world history class or a college level world history course would find this workbook useful. Crash Course World History II differs from Crash Course World History I as it focuses on the thematic relationship between events in world history throughout time. This book can be used in concordance with both high school and college world history classes in order to improve test scores, content understanding, and essay structure in writing.

Case-Based Reasoning Research and Development

This book offers the tools teachers need to get started with a more thoughtful and compelling approach to teaching history, one that develops literacy and higher-order thinking skills, connects the past to students' lives today, and meets social studies 3C standards and most state standards (grades 6-12). The author provides over 90 primary sources organized into seven thematic units, each structured around an essential question from world history. As students analyze carefully excerpted documents--including speeches by queens and rebels, ancient artifacts, and social media posts--they build an understanding of how diverse historical figures have approached key issues. At the same time, students learn to participate in civic debates and develop their own views on what it means to be a 21st-century citizen of the world. Each unit connects to current events with dynamic classroom activities that make history come alive. In addition to the documents themselves, this teaching manual provides strategies to assess student learning; mini-lectures designed to introduce documents; activities and reproducibles to help students process, display, and integrate their learning; guidance to help teachers create their own units; guidelines for respectful student debate and discussion; and more. Book Features: A timely aid for secondary school teachers tasked with meeting standards and other state-level quality requirements. An approach that promotes student engagement and critical thinking to replace or augment a traditional textbook. Challenges to the \"master narrative\" of world history from figures like Queen Nzinga and Huda Sha'arawi, as well as traditionally recognized historical figures such as Pericles and Napoleon. Essential questions to help students explore seven of the most important recurring themes in world history. Role-plays and debates to promote interaction among students. Printable copies of the documents included in the book can be downloaded at tcpress.com.
